The coronavirus is keeping all of us on our toes and the need for up-to-date information is greater than ever.

With EANM’20 in Vienna getting closer, we’ll be providing you with the latest news on a weekly basis in our Wed@Noon update to make sure you don’t miss a thing.

As things stand, the EANM Annual Congress will take place October 17-21, 2020, so be certain to save the date in your calendar.

In fact, we are delighted to be able to start our newsletter series with some great news! The Austrian government has recently announced that up to 5,000 people may attend events in closed spaces from September. Therefore, it is very likely that we can hold EANM’20 as an onsite congress. And you can rest assured that EANM will take all necessary measures to keep its participants safe and up-to-date.

Consequently, we look forward to receiving your registration and to welcoming you to this year’s edition of the conference at the Austria Center Vienna.
